WHY / problem and value

Give reviewers an accurate map of the existing frontend, preservation boundaries and measured results before proposing behavior or deployment changes.

WHAT / change scope

Document build/server/browser boundaries, all 45 source pages and 21 configured redirects, public configuration, observed baseline results and a concise team presentation.

HOW / implementation rationale

Trace checked-out source, link each boundary to its implementation, compare the exported staged payload with the immutable application baseline, and distinguish measured results from unverified behavior.

WHERE / affected paths

docs/architecture.md
docs/reference/routes-and-configuration.md docs/engineering/baseline.md
docs/engineering/team-review.md
docs/README.md; README.md

PRESERVED / existing contracts

Application source, public assets, dependencies, adapters, chart interfaces and existing CI remain byte-identical to the recorded upstream application baseline.

RISK / what could go wrong

A source inventory is not runtime coverage. Several configured redirect targets have no matching page file. Documentation records this observation without prescribing a behavior repair.

LIMITATIONS / what is not proved

No new browser, viewer, platform or remote CI result. Baseline live-service build results are historical observations. Inherited advisories and maintainer licensing questions remain unresolved.

ROLLBACK / restore and verify

Revert this documentation change in a new reported commit. Contributor and report tools remain usable; application inputs are unaffected.

VALIDATION / actual local evidence

Gate	Command / check	Outcome	Duration	Evidence
Docs and source	python3 -B artifacts/admission/architecture/check_documentation.py artifacts/admission/architecture/candidate	PASS	4.46 s	artifacts/admission/architecture/documentation-check.json

Remote validation at authoring: NOT_RUN. Later CI belongs to the immutable commit's check records, not a follow-up report commit.
